

Contents

Acknowledgments	viii
Introduction	1
Oliver Haag & Lara Day
 I. CATEGORIES: CONTINUOUS, HETEROGENEOUS NARRATIVES
1. The “Origin of the Germans”: Narratives, Academic Research, and Bad Cognitive Practice	27
Ulrich Charpa
2. Fantasies of Mixture, Politics of Purity: Narratives of Miscegenation in Colonial Literature, Literary Primitivism, and Theories of Race (1900–1933)	44
Eva Blome
3. Blüte und Zerfall : “Schematic Narrative Templates” of Decline and Fall in Völkisch and National Socialist Racial Ideology	65
Helen Roche
 II. GERMANY AND INTERNAL OTHERNESS
4. Ernst Lissauer: Advocating Deutschtum Against Cultural Narratives of Race	89
Arne Offermanns
5. The Jewish CEO and the Lutheran Bishop: The Impact of German Colonial Studies on Young Jewish and Christian Academics’ Cultural Narratives of Race	108
Lukas Bormann

III. GERMANY AND TRANSNATIONAL OTHERNESS

6. Race and Ethnicity in German Criminology: On Crime Rates and the Polish Population in the Kaiserreich (1871–1914) 129
Volker Zimmermann
7. Narratives of Race, Constructions of Community, and the Demand for Female Participation in German-Nationalist Movements in Austria and the German Reich 154
Johanna Gehmacher
8. In the Crosshairs of Degeneracy and Race: The Wilhelmine Origins of the Construction of a National Aesthetic and Parameters of Normalcy in Weimar Germany 174
Lara Day

IV. GERMANY AND COLONIAL OTHERNESS

9. “The White Goddess of the Masses”: Stardom, Whiteness, and Racial Masquerade in Weimar Popular Culture 209
Pablo Dominguez Andersen
10. Idealized Australian Aboriginality in German Narratives of Race 230
Oliver Haag
- Index 258