
Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi

Part I. Foundation

Introduction. “Nature” in Anthropological Theories	3
Chapter 1. Inhabitants of the Universe	21

Part II. “Japanese Nature” by the Elite

Chapter 2. Rice Paddies with Pure Water: Birth of “Japanese Nature” in the Early Nara Period (710–794)	47
Chapter 3. Agrarian Four Seasons to Culturally Defined Four Seasons: The Late Nara Period (710–794) and Heian Period (794–1185)	63
Chapter 4. Rock Garden as “Japanese Nature”: Medieval Period (1185–1603)	84

Part III. “Nature” as the Symbol of the Japanese Collective Self

Chapter 5. Rice Paddies, Cherry Blossoms, and Mount Fuji as “Japanese Nature”: Edo Period (1603–1867)	103
Chapter 6. Nationalization and Militarization of “Japanese Nature”: Modern Period (1868–1945)	120

Part IV. “Nature” Consumed

Chapter 7. Domestication/Commodification of “Japanese Nature”: Contemporary Period (after 1945)	137
--	-----

Chapter 8. Rice as Pure Money: Cultural Bases of Consumerism	160
Conclusion	175
References	184
Index	213