

The Cambridge Journal of Anthropology* Submission Guidelines

Research articles should be a maximum of 8,000 words (including notes and references). These should be submitted via <https://ojs.berghahnjournals.com/index.php/cja>. Potential contributors are welcome to contact the editors, Liana Chua and Natalia Buitron (cja@socanth.cam.ac.uk), if they have any queries.

Reviews of single books (including for Re-Reviewed) and contributions to Widening the Frame should be 800 words at maximum. Review essays must review a minimum of three titles and be 2,000 to 3,000 words. If you have an idea for a review feature, please contact the Reviews Editor, Timothy Cooper (tpc40@cam.ac.uk), in the first instance.

Special issues: The journal publishes special issues twice a year, usually around June and December. These are selected via an open competition, with calls for proposals usually circulated around September and March. The maximum length for a special issue is 60,000 words, including notes, references, introductions and afterwords. Proposals should be sent to the editors, Liana Chua and Natalia Buitron (cja@socanth.cam.ac.uk), and include: The name(s), contact details and position(s) of the guest editor(s) and all authors; the proposed title of the Special Issue; an abstract of 750-1000 words that outlines the context, rationale, coherence and contribution of the Special Issue; titles, 125-150 word abstracts and word counts for each individual contribution; an indication of whether drafts of each contribution are complete at the date of proposal.

Submission and Review Process

The Cambridge Journal of Anthropology is a refereed journal. Submissions are considered on the understanding that the article is not under consideration for publication elsewhere. Articles are sent to at least two scholars with relevant experience and expertise. Referees are asked to advise the editors whether the article should be published and, if so, with what recommended changes. The editors respond to the author with their decision, a list of any changes needed for publication and the anonymous referees' comments, or a summary thereof.

Publication

Manuscripts accepted for publication that do not conform to the style guide may be returned to the author for amendment. Manuscripts may also be returned if they are longer than the advised word length or if greater conciseness in the writing is required. The editors also reserve the right to alter usage to conform to the style guide issued by the publishers. Authors may not supply new materials or request major alterations following the copyediting stage, so please ensure that all text is final upon acceptance. Contributors may purchase print copies at a reduced price or purchase offprints.

Copyright and Permissions

Upon acceptance, authors are required to submit copyright agreements and all necessary permission letters for reprinting or modifying copyrighted materials, both textual and graphic. The author is fully responsible for obtaining all permissions and clearing any associated fees to reproduce copyrighted materials. Please see the linked forms below:

CC BY NC ND (recommended for authors of full-length articles)

CC BY (required for reviewers)

Permission, Caption, and Alt Text

Each author is responsible for securing permission for all displayed materials in their chapter and submitting proof of permission to the publisher in English. Permissions should be included upon submission of the article. Please note that for many artworks from museums, galleries, archives, and similar, credit information is required both for the original artwork and the digital image (e.g. the photograph of the artwork), if the latter is licensed by the museum, gallery, or archive. If permissions have been provided in a language other than English, it is the author's responsibility to provide a translation of the permission.

Articles must include placement and captions for all figures. Captions should include the title and/or description of the piece, the source (was it created by the author, someone else, scanned from a book?), and permission status (courtesy of...). If there is a requirement, ensure the correct permission wording is used.

For accessibility purposes, we also require alt text for all images. Alt text image descriptions help those with visual impairments understand the meaning of an image. When a screen reader reaches an image, it will read aloud the description. The user gets a sense of what that image is and its purpose in context. For help writing image alt text, please see our comprehensive guide here: https://www.berghahnbooks.com/uploads/authors/alt_text_101.pdf

Research Funding

All research funding (often mentioned in the acknowledgments section) must not conflict with our embargo period outlined in the journal copyright transfer agreement. Prior to submission to Berghahn, authors need to establish the requirements of their funding, and if necessary, pursue the gold OA option for their article. For details about our OA journals and licenses, please visit the following page for additional information:

AI

For guidance on the use of artificial intelligence (AI) in relation to submissions, please see Berghahn's detailed AI policy here:

Have other questions about submitting your manuscript? Please refer to Berghahn's Journal Author FAQs for additional information.

Referencing and Style

The Cambridge Journal of Anthropology style guide is based on the New Oxford Style Manual and New Hart's Rules, with some deviations for house preferences. Please note that the journal uses UK punctuation and spelling (including a preference for –ise over –ize endings), following The Oxford English Dictionary.

The Cambridge Journal of Anthropology follows the in-text author-date reference system. Every article must include a complete reference list with full documentation at the end. Any other notes should be presented as endnotes (using Microsoft Word's automatic endnote function) and kept brief and to a minimum.

Author-Date Examples

(Pickett and White 1985; Smith 1987)
Mehta's research (1977, 1979a, 1979b)
(Kant n.d.; McGinnis forthcoming)

Single Author with Multiple Sources: (Smith 1993: 63; 1998: 124–169)

Three or More Authors: (Jones et al. 2001)

Authors with Same Last Name: (D. Smith 1981; G. Smith 1999)

The first mention of an author in the main body text (not in-text citations) should include the first and last name. Multiple sources in a parenthetical note should be listed alphabetically.

Article Submission Checklist

- Copyright assignment form must be signed and submitted (no later than the final revised article submission)
- All text, including headings, notes, and references, is in 12-point Times New Roman and double-spaced with a 1-inch margin on all sides and no extra spaces between paragraphs;
- Different levels of headings are indicated by varying the typeface. Use bold type for an A Head (a main text heading). Use bold italic for a B Head (a first-level subheading). Use non-bold italic for a C Head;
- Your article should be submitted with the following elements in order:
 - Title of the article;
 - Name of all authors
 - An abstract of 125 words that is a summary or overview of the entire article, and does not duplicate verbatim sections of the main text;
 - Five to eight keywords in alphabetical order and separated by commas (with only proper nouns capitalized);
 - Full article text
 - Acknowledgements, including any funding details
 - A bio of no more than 100 words for each author (including an ORCID and institutional affiliation if applicable);
 - Complete contact information for each author (mailing address, phone number, and email);
 - Endnotes/references (please ensure that your references match the style of the journal)
 - Any endnotes should be integrated using Word's endnote tool. Please do not format your notes in an automatically numbered list.
 - Superscript note reference numbers/asterisks should not be placed on article titles, headings, abstract, epigraphs, or contributor names.
- Tables should be submitted in separate files and clearly labelled. Placement callouts and captions should be included in the main text of the article.
 - All figures should be submitted as individual files in high-resolution (300 dpi) and labelled.
 - Please do not embed your images in a word document. Send them as individual files.
- Image permissions, captions, and alt-text must be included.
